Welcome to the 2019 Horley Carnival with Great Moments in History as the theme.

The parade will form up in the Victoria Road car park and, leaving at 12.30 pm, travel to the A23 Recreation Ground via the town centre where we expect it to arrive around 1.00 pm. The full parade route can be found in this programme.

The floats will be judged by the Mayors of Reigate & Banstead and Horley before the parade sets off.

Two of the four bands, before joining the parade, will be performing in the pedestrian precinct, or the area outside the Post Office dependent upon the work being carried out in the pedestrian precinct, and outside Costa Coffee.

This year's arena programme includes Flyte of Fancy sheepdog show and an Indian dance group from Crawley whilst in the grounds will be the Kidsroom petting farm and tractor rides.

Team Rubicon will be giving free lessons using scooters/skate boards etc on the skate park. Don't worry if you do not have some of the equipment which they will supply. Pre-booking is not required just turn up on the day.

Returning will be favourites interactive characters from Animatronics, Tom's Talking Reptiles, Owls about Town, Punch and Judy.

Appearing for the second year running will be our local Army Reserves both in the parade and in the grounds.

The evening fireworks display organised by Beach's Funfair will start at 9.45 pm approximately. There will be no entry charge to attend.

I would like to acknowledge the hard work put in by the organising team which has comprised Horley Lions, 41 Club, MAD Ideas, Susy Radio, Horley Town Council, Chamber of Commerce and Alex Goddard.

Please take the time to visit the many stalls around the ground many of which are from these and other community groups.

The list of parade participants, arena events and stall holders was correct at the time of going to print and is subject to later additions and cancellations.

I would like to thank our many sponsors who include Gatwick Airport Ltd, Reigate & Banstead Borough Council Councillors and those local companies and individuals listed in the 'thank you' page at the back of this programme also the numerous local companies who have sponsored this programme.

Thank you for supporting your Carnival.

Moments in History

Here's a collection of different moments in history, some of which you may have heard of and some other more unusual ones...

Diogenes was an ancient Greek philosopher who believed people should live as simply as possible. He lived in a barrel in the middle of a market of Athens and, when asked by Alexander the Great if he wanted anything, Diogenes said, "Yes. Get out of my sunlight."

The NHS was introduced in 1948; it was a hugely ambitious plan to bring good healthcare to all. For the first time, hospitals, doctors, nurses, pharmacists, opticians and dentists were brought together under one umbrella organisation to provide services that are free for all at the point of delivery.

Said the wrong thing? At least no one will remember it thousands of years from now - unlike poor Hegelochus, an Ancient Greek actor, whose mispronunciation of one word means he's still remembered today. While performing the play Orestes he was supposed to say, "after the storm I see again a calm sea," but instead he said, "after the storm I see again a weasel". His mistake was ridiculed in so many other plays that his name has survived through history!

Hippocrates, a Greek physician now known as the The Father of Western Medicine, would diagnose his patients by tasting their pus, earwax and urine.

The Roman Emperor Caligula once tried to invade Britain, then changed his mind, declared war on the sea instead and made his soldiers collect seashells from the beach as trophies of war.

"The past is a foreign country; they do things differently there."

L.P. Hartley, The Go-Between

Spot The Difference!

Can you find the 10 differences between these two pictures?

More Moments in History

In the Georgian era, merchant ships would paint pictures of cannons on the side of their boat to deter other ships from attacking them.

Feeling a little breathless? At least you're not in the Tudor era, where the cure for asthma was buttered spiders.

In the 16th century, Solomon's Water was sold as a face cleanser. It was guaranteed to get rid of spots, freckles and warts - but as it contained mercury, side effects included blindness, deafness, nerve damage and death.

After Nelson died during the Battle of Trafalgar, his body was preserved in a barrel of brandy.

Where would we be without the world wide web?

While working at CERN, Tim Berners-Lee first described the concept of a global system based on 'hypertext' which would allow researchers anywhere to share information. The world's first website was launched in 1991 and it explained the concept of the world wide web while giving users an introduction to getting started with their own websites.

In the 18th century, long before the national Fire and Rescue Service was established, some fire brigades would be paid for every fire they put out. Unfortunately, this meant some groups realised they would get paid more if they started setting the fires, too.

Ring my bell! The invention of the telephone! Alexander Graham Bell, (born March 3, 1847) was a Scottish-born American inventor, scientist, and teacher of the deaf whose foremost accomplishments were the invention of the telephone (1876) and the refinement of the phonograph (1886).

Making wrongs right

Abolition of Slavery

"Am I not a man and a brother?"

Slavery on English soil was unsupported in English law and that position was confirmed in Somerset's Case in 1772, but it remained legal in most of the British Empire until the Slavery Abolition Act in 1833.

Women's Rights "I would rather be a rebel than a slave"

Before 1870, married women had to surrender all property and earnings to their husbands, effectively giving them the same legal status as an insane person or a criminal. Women were excluded from being elected and were even prevented from accessing higher education until 1878. The Representation of the People act was given Royal Assent from George V in 1918, giving approximately 8.4 million women the vote. The act, championed by suffrage pioneer Millicent Fawcett and suffragette leaders the Pankhursts, is considered a pivotal moment for women's rights and helped lay the foundations for progress towards greater political, social and economic equality.

Gay Rights "Marriage is about love, not gender"

LGBT rights equality has been on the rise since 1950, though there were laws in place against homosexuality in the UK until 1967. In 1992, the first pride festival was held in Brighton, a festival still popular today. However, change is accelerating: in 2013 England and Wales passed the marriage (same sex couples) act, with Scotland following in 2014. Then in 2015 Ireland voted by a huge majority to legalise same sex marriage, becoming the first country in the world to do so by a referendum. In 2017, the UK Supreme Court ruled discrimination against same-sex couples on pensions rights needs to end immediately.

Animal Rights "They feel equally"

Animal rights as a grassroots movement has been gaining momentum in recent years, with the message all animals have a right to liberty and life. A principal UK activism organisation, Surge, shares a vision of a world in which non-human animals are free from oppression and violence. Evidence of this movement gaining momentum is the announcement fashion designers will not use fur at London fashion week, citing a reflection of "cultural change" in consumer sentiment, with Helsinki also banning leather. We're also seeing a historical change in accommodation of the plant based diet by mainstream supermarkets and restaurants, further supporting the spread of this ethical movement, set to be the next biggest social justice change in history.

Even More Moments in History

In the entire state of Ohio in 1895, there were only two cars on the road, and the drivers of these two cars crashed into each other.

In 1928 Otto Frederick Rohwedder created the "greatest invention" – pre-sliced bread. However, when first invented, many bakers were skeptical as they believed it would quickly go stale or fall apart.

Henry II, Count of Champagne died on 10th September 1197 when one day he tripped over a dwarf and fell out the window. The dwarf tried to save him and consequently fell too. Neither of the men survived however it is unclear whether Henry died from the fall or the dwarf landing on him.

Myths vs The Truth!

The Myth

Carrots make you see in the dark

It's true that carrots are full of vitamin A, which is good for eye health, but that doesn't mean they give you night vision! The rumour was started by the British Ministry of Information during WWII to hide the fact that they had invented radar. Their new technology meant they could spot German planes coming over the channel sooner, but to keep the secret they started an advertising campaign encouraging the public to eat lots of carrots so they could see during blackouts!

The Truth

Nero fiddled while Rome burned

In 64 AD, when the Great Fire of Rome broke out, Emperor Nero was 30 miles away in the city of Antium. When news reached him he rushed back to Rome to help: he paid for the relief effort, personally helped the search and rescue for victims, opened parks and palaces to provide shelter and arranged for food supplies to be delivered to survivors.

Fiddles wouldn't be invented for another thousand years, but Nero was proficient at playing the cithara (a type of string instrument, like a cross between a guitar and a harp).

Columbus was the first person to reach America

Christopher Columbus sailed across the Atlantic ocean four times, but he never once set foot on mainland America. His voyages explored coastlines of Central and South America, and he spent a lot of time around Caribbean islands - but Columbus remained convinced that what he'd actually found was a new route to South Asia!

He wasn't even the first European to reach the American continent: Leif Erikson, an explorer from Iceland, got there 500 years before Columbus sailed by.

Vikings wore horned helmets

Despite them being associated with Nordic raiders in popular culture, the Vikings didn't wear horned helmets into battle. The 9th century Oseburg tapestry shows someone in a horned helmet, but either it's someone performing a ritual or it's supposed to be a god.

This myth comes from the 19th century revival of all things Norse, when horned Viking warriors were put into epic paintings and productions of Wagner. In fact the whole thing may be the fault of Prof. Cale Emil Doepler, Wagner's costume designer.

Making History

"You are never too small to make a difference"

"We are risking future generations' futures by continuing to eat like this. We need to change ourselves now because tomorrow might be too late"
Greta Thunberg

Right now, history is being made as Greta Thunberg, a Swedish schoolgirl, is galvanising the world into taking climate change seriously - demonstrating anyone can make history.

Unless we change, the earth as we know it is likely to be history too. Greta's message is we all need to make changes to reduce our impact on the planet - you may think that's hard and you're just one person, but it only takes a small change by many people to cascade into a big result.

Did you know animal agriculture is one of the leading causes of climate change, ocean dead zones, deforestation, loss of bio diversity and wildlife extinction?

One of the easiest and most powerful ways we can make a difference is to adopt a plant based diet and stop consuming animal products including dairy.

If you'd like to make sure children like Greta have a future, be a part of the movement she's inspired and the result could be amazing for you, your family and the planet.

This is how you can help us. Top tips:

> Switch dairy for plant milks such as oat, soya and hemp. Try dairy-free ice cream, custard and yoghurt e.g Magnum Almond, Alpro and supermarket own brand. Vegan cheese winners include Violife and Tesco Red Leicester.

> Opt for plant powered protein. Try tasty vegan burgers, sausages and nuggets. These taste like meat but contain no cholesterol. Check supermarket frozen and free-from sections such as M&S Plant Kitchen, Tesco Wicked Kitchen, and Iceland no bull.

No need to miss out on taste, visit The Retreat café and try our delicious food!
